

Meet Barb Ross, our October 2011, Quilter of the Month! Barb has been quilting for 17 years and was taught by Winnie Rousseau, who had a machine quilting class of a sampler quilt called the Oregon Trail. Barb has a very creative outlook on everything she does! Her inspiration to keep quilting comes from her love of fabric and the unlimited opportunity to try something new. She is currently working on binding seven baby quilts that she started at last spring camp to donate to our local hospital, a casserole cover and has tons of UFO's. Her favorite technique is from Jenny Raymond's, Twiddling and Fiddling, which is pictured above with Barb. She says you can do so much with the bias of fabric. This quilt is a gift for her niece, Kathryn. Barb's next adventure she would like to try is by Jinny Beyer called Tessalating Tabbies, where you interconnect designs with different colors. Barb also loves to read, make dolls & teddy bears, and to sew with little kids. Barb is retired from Abitibi after 15 years as an industrial hygienist. Barb is married to her husband, Len and they have two grown children, Heide and Terry, and two grandsons, Gus and Gill, who all have quilts made by Barb of course! Thank you, Barb, for being our quilter of the month for October 2011!
