We're in Full Bloom!

February was busy with classes. I am often asked why I have so many different technique classes (Goldwork, Needle painting, painted canvas and counted needlepoint). I have learned so much from different classes that I can apply to painted canvas. Every class, you can learn new techniques, polish old skills and get rid of bad habits. These classes are designed to provide you with as much information as possible. Next year we are doing a Blackwork class and Hapsburg lace class with Tanja Berlin. It has been a long time since I have done black work though I used some Blackwork patterns on canvas. The history of these different forms of needlework is always so interesting. The unique skills that come with each class make one a better stitcher. Also, it is just fun to do something different. I am taking a felting class at one of the needlework markets to learn more about felting. I have used this technique on canvas for bunnies, squirrels and bears and am interested to learn from this teacher. So explore the classes available with us, make new friends and relax in our lovely shop.

In April we look forward to our Japanese Embroidery and beading class. Dallas needlework market will bring new designs, tools and other goodies into the shop. Nashville market will supply new counted designs from DebBee's Designs, Needle Delights by Kathy Rees, Nancy's Needle and others.

So stop by and say hello. We are eager to help you with your projects.

ASK SUSAN

Alice P. from California asks:

I have problem working with ribbon . It just keeps slipping out of my needle. I would like to use more ribbon but get tired of rethreading my needle. Do you have solution for me?

Here are two techniques to use with silk ribbon:

Threading and locking the ribbon

1 TO KEEP THE RIBBON IN THE NEEDLE:

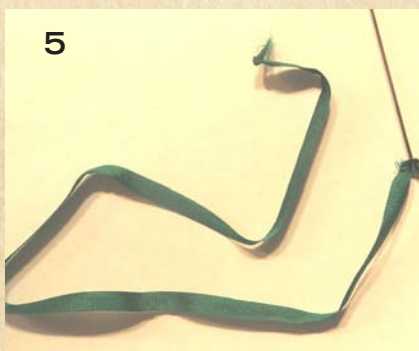

Thread the ribbon in the needle, then slide the needle up the ribbon about 3 inches. Put the point of the needle about $\frac{1}{4}$ inch from the end of the ribbon and pull the ribbon tight. This locks the ribbon in the needle.

Knotting the end of the ribbon

2 TO KNOT THE END OF THE RIBBON:

Put the needle through the end of the ribbon about $\frac{1}{4}$ " from the end and slide the knot down the needle. You can use these same techniques with any ribbon or Flair, Neon rays, Frosty Rays.

Use these techniques to enjoy stitching with ribbon. Thank you to Alice for the question and enjoy your scissors!

MARCH 22 AND 23

JOURNEY by Margaret Bendig

A counted design in these colors or you own colors.

Journey is a design created by talented Margaret Bendig following her visit to a Frank Lloyd Wright building where she was inspired by the stained glass windows. The design is 11" x 11" on 18-count eggshell canvas. It can be done in cotton or silk with metallics and an overdyed thread. Stitches include Waffles, Rice, Woven Satin, Interrupted Waffle, Framed Scotch, Cashmere Brick, Log Cabin Mosaic, Framed Brick, Reversing Scotch and Wild Rice Stitch, to name a few.
